

Zagreb, 01.12.2015.

Informator is a legal paper published by Novi informator Company. The print issue has been in circulation for the last 63 years while the digital counterpart is available online from 2011.

The paper deals with an abundance of interesting and contemporary legal and economical topics. On the cover of the paper stimulating articles in the form of interviews or legal reviews are published. Such articles provide a critical retrospect of legislative, executive and judicial branch of the government, both in Croatia and the EU.

The paper also publishes articles that comparatively analyse legislation and refer to useful experiences of other countries throughout the world. Informator also contains recent cases from judicial practice as well as answers to concrete questions posed in legal practice.

Enclosed with the paper are supplements which deal with specific areas of law (ustavni vidici, gradnja i prostorno uređenje) as well as columns (traditio iuridica, amicus curi@e and porezi i lokalna samouprava).

Throughout the 2014 and 2015 many seminars and workshops have been held and many handbooks and books have been published by Novi informator Company. All this points to a significant and natural connection between Informator and other publications of the Company.

Chief editor of the Informator:

Davorka Foretić

